A dream comes true

People For Drug Free Youth in Mishicot has completed construction of its Wooden Wonderland playground in the Mishicot Village Park. The project has been a 15-year dream for Ramona Peronto and Jean Staudinger, co-founders of PFDFY in 1980. The organization was founded to educate the public about the dangers of alcohol and other drug abuse and provide constructive activities for children. PFDFY involved area children in the playground project, enabling them to choose the name, design the entrance and raise money. Putting finishing touches on the project are, from left, Peronto, Brenda Yauger and her daughters, Toni and Felicia, their father, Mike, and Staudinger. For details, see Page A-3.

Herald Times Reporter photo by Ron Hoerth